"The topography of the location, the ledge outcroppings, and the majestic mature trees were all carefully worked around to produce an incredible pool environment," says Brian Cossari, landscape architect, who describes the pool area of this Sherman, CT, home as "quite literally carved into the mountainside."

"The outdoor game room with putting green and space for table games like foosball and ping pong is such a unique touch. It provides a dedicated space for the kids to play while their parents can entertain their own guests," says landscape architect Matt Biron. "The pool environment boasts multiple other spaces for entertaining, including an outdoor dining room and lounging/tanning terrace."
